What the WORLD'S PRESS endorses

1. United Nations' progress
2. More fun and get things done among the United Nations' heads
3. More and more what's right with America, Russia, Britain, and our United Nations
4. The individual nowadays who tries to leave out the virtues of Russia is easily found out. Usually he hides behind a nameless medium, ashamed to give his name
5. New Republic, Nation, New Masses, Daily Worker, Soviet Russia Today—for taking in truer truths before letting em out
6. Less time—waste talk; more constructive actions; jobs for all
7. Less waste of space on superstitions, ghosts, 2nd-hand propaganda, and lies; more and more accurate news from Russia's Kremlin
8. No one is perfect; greatest good for the greatest number; 2nd New Deal
9. One of the things that holds us back from better laws and life, love and security, is that filthy poison called liquor.

Truer Truths and Security

WHAT FREE MEN NEED MOST

The Free Peoples of the world are learning more about each other today than ever before.

The Big 3

The United Nations—guided by the free peoples of the United States, Britain, and Russia—is the strongest union for world security the world has ever known.

World Democracy

The spread of free speech and exchange of views today is greater than ever before. The Democratic forces of free speech for all are stronger than ever in the history of world democracy.

Free

Free Americans and World Citizens of the United Nations are taking part in our common world more than ever before.

The Big 2

The American and Russian revolutions proved to be among the greatest stimuli toward world democracy, world citizen progress, and world peace in history.

U. S. Radio

The United States Radio programs are spreading more news about the United Nations than ever before.

The peoples of America, Russia, and Britain are more conscious of their free, common brotherhood—than ever before.

But What?

But what about the average editor in the United States? He is backward, inaccurate, and living in fears and superstitions.

Average Editor

It's time for the average editor to grow out of his own made fears.

Who is he afraid of in his sloppy thinking about Russia and Britain?

Mr. New
Mr. Rose
Mr. Tracy
Mr. Carson
Mr. Egan
Mr. Garber
Mr. Harbo
Mr. Hendon
Mr. Pannip

Are Truman and Eisenhower afraid to say good things about Russia and Britain? Was Roosevelt? Willkie? Are Stassen, Helen Gahagan Douglas, Patterson, Senators Pepper and Connally, Jackson, Stettinius, Byrnes, La Guardia, Wallace, and millions of other better informed citizens?

Time To Wake Up

It's time to wake up, average editor! And that goes for Dewey, too.

Just what ghost and superstition is the average U. S. editor scared of? Why is he so untruthful?

Unscientific

Yes, the average U. S. editor today is behind the times—backward and inaccurate. He is still fighting ghosts and wars in the 19th century, and forgets this age of Air Forces, Short Wave Radio, and the Sciences. He is very, very unscientific.

Immoral

He gives more publicity to that filthy poison called liquor—than he does to the laws of the good members of our own U. S. Congress; and the heads of Russia and Britain. He takes time out occasionally to condemn accidents, now and then—but in the pages in between, he gives more publicity to the main cause of accidents—liquor.

Good Laws

Think of how many good laws we can pass, the great good we can advance in the next two years—if and when the average editor helps us more truthfully.

Good Mornings

How many more truly "Good mornings" for more people; how many more living in security; more good jobs for all; a more perfect union we can continue to form.

Everywhere

The good United Nations, Movie Industry, Radio Industry, and good decent citizens everywhere are helping us.

So What?

What Free Men need most is truer truths, easy words, and above all, getting good things done.

Let's keep moving forward—constructively, truthfully, happily, democratically, together.

Handwriting on the Wall—1950!

TO BELSHAZZAR, king of Ancient Babylon, the fearful warning on the wall of his banquet hall came too late. That night his kingdom was destroyed.

Here in America there is handwriting on our own walls today: "Excessive debt leads to disaster!"

Our public debt—national, state, and local, staggers the imagination. Worse yet, through the so-called policy of "deficit spending," we are plunging deeper and deeper into the red. We are spending money we don't have.

These spending policies now endanger the security and prosperity of all American business and industry, both large and small, and of their employes, stockholders, and customers. That means, of course, that the security and prosperity of "everyone" is at stake!

Take a look at the record. During America's first 152 years (1789 to 1941), the federal government spent a total of 180 billion dollars. Now, in the five years ending June, 1950, it spent 217 billion dollars.

Any man can create a false and temporary prosperity for himself by living beyond his income, and by borrowing money to make up the difference. Would "you" handle your own family finances that way? Of course not. Nor would any sensible businessman handle his company's affairs in such a manner. A day of reckoning always comes.

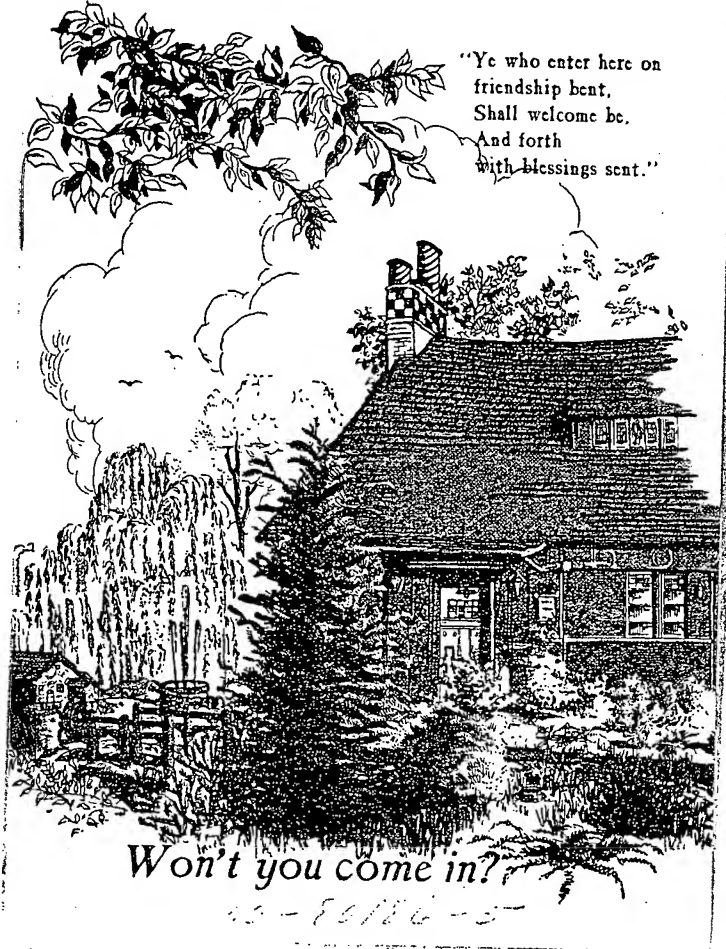

The policy of "deficit spending" has now increased the federal debt to 256 billion dollars. Your personal share of this debt burden is $1,700. Your wife, and each member of your family owes that much, too. So does every person in America. Each of your children must face the future carrying a $1,700 mortgage, as of today. It may be more next year.

There is one answer to this frightening problem—simple, sensible, day-by-day economy. Most of us practice that kind of economy in our private lives. Isn't it time we started to practice that same kind of economy in our national, state, and local government, too?

What Is THE HOUSE OF SUNSHINE?

"Buildings have personalities; some by their immense dignity speak almost as music speaks, and change anxiety to trust."

OUT of this inspiration came the institution known as The House of Sunshine, the home of SUNSHINE MAGAZINE, and a comprehensive line of distinctive monthly goodwill advertising publications for business and professional establishments, also a wide variety of de luxe booklets, known popularly as "Sunshine Bookies."

The House of Sunshine is of Norman design with Early American trend, typical of the architectural classics of that period. The walls, fourteen inches thick, are built of Pioneer brick with beaded mortar joints. The roof is designed after the Renaissance type of the Fifteenth Century, surmounted with a weathervane of an original design—a shepherd with his crook and flock, bearing against the onrushing elements. On either side of the main entrance are cameo carvings of the Town Crier and the Shepherd, the two trademarks used in the business of The House of Sunshine. They are carved in solid oak by the Italian woodcarver, Victor Berlendis.

The interior finishings are of redgum wood, with black walnut random-width plank flooring. The beamed ceiling in the reception room has Sicilian decorations. The furniture is of the Feudal Oak period.

Within the dormer area is installed a modern high fidelity sound apparatus, to facilitate broadcasting the daily Call of Sunset and the occasional entertainment features.

The electric fountain and waterfall, producing a succession of water action and colored light changes, are operated by pumps in an underground pit.

The musical and Guest Hour programs originate in the recreation room, amplified through high-fidelity speakers. Electric organ, microphone, and transcriptions are used.

The public entertainment features are offered solely for civic and patriotic reasons, and are intended to contribute to the interest and welfare of the community.

Running Away from Security

This picture of a poor fugitive is from one of the stereotypes cut and manufactured in this city for the southern market, and used on handbills offering rewards for runaway slaves.

THE RUNAWAY.

THE picture above shows a man running away from security.

He received all his meals for himself and family for nothing.

He received free medical attention for himself and family.

He paid no rent.

He and his family received free clothing.

His house was furnished for him.

He got his working tools free.

If anything happened to him, his family received the same benefits that they received when he was alive.

If it was necessary for him or his family to travel, transportation was furnished.

He didn't have to pay any taxes.

In fact, he didn't have to pay for anything. He didn't even need to have any money.

Despite these, he is running away.

You know the answer. The picture, taken from an old newspaper, shows a slave running away from all the blessings we've mentioned. That slave, and a lot of others, preferred freedom and insecurity to slavery and security.

Why do we bring this up?

Because we, as individuals, are sacrificing our freedom to become slaves. For every benefit we gain, we have to pay a price. That price is part of our freedom.

Compare our lot with that of our ancestors, the pioneers. With little more than their two hands, they won a living from the wilderness. But they had freedom, and what they earned was their own. They supported themselves, but not their masters.

A slave has to support himself and his master.—Reprint from Sunshine Magazine

AMERICA

AMERICA, the Land of Plenty . . . with a wealth of fruitful harvests, and resources unlimited . . . whose bounty has not been strained and whose manifold blessings afford opportunity for all . . . a country where men may expect the compensation of peace and abundance for their efforts.

America, the Land of the Free . . . our priceless heritage from the Fathers who believed that this commonwealth could be made of a wilderness . . . a nation of hospitality, progressiveness, courage and optimism, made symbolic by the blood of many peoples. Thus, we bear no ancient hatreds, for we learn from our differences and are enriched by them.

America, the Beautiful . . . extending in broad expanse from sea to sea . . . the land of golden fields, forests of stately timbers, blue waters and fertile valleys lying against a background of lofty mountains . . . a panorama of majestic beauty beyond the power of art. Here, surely, man may find a goodly home for his spirit.

America, the Mighty Union of States . . . a continent of magnificent cities, vast industries and pleasant countrysides, where folk may live in security and brotherhood. . . . May she fulfill her noble destiny as the cradle of liberty and the light of righteous living. . . . And we shall ever thank God that this nation, the Land of Promise, is our own.

Dear Mr. Henrichs:

Thank you for the September, 1959, issue of Sunshine Magazine which I received on August 25, 1959. It was thoughtful of you to send me a copy.

In connection with the statement attributed to me on page 32, I thought you might like to know that the most recent figures available to me indicate that total school expenditures for both public and private schools, from kindergarten through higher education for the school year of 1957-1958, are $19,763,000,000 according to the Office of Education. The annual cost of crime has been estimated at $22 billion; therefore, for every $1 spent on education, $1.11 is spent on crime.

Sincerely yours,

J. Edgar Hoover

NOTE: Bufiles indicate limited cordial correspondence with Henrichs in his present capacity with Sunshine Magazine prior to 1953. Page 32 of the Magazine contains what purports to be a quote from the Director in which it is stated that U. S. criminals force the people of the U. S. to spend more than 4 2/3 times as much on the criminals as we spend on all forms of education, both public and private. No support for the percentage figures used by Henrichs could be located. Source of statistics furnished Henrichs is from a Leonard to Mr. Mohr memo dated 4-22-58.

What Is America?

AMERICA means far more than a continent bounded by two oceans. It is more than pride of military power, glory in war, or in victory. It means more than vast expanse of farms, of great factories or mines, magnificent cities, or millions of automobiles and radios.

It is more even than the traditions of the great tide westward from Europe which pioneered the conquest of a continent. It is more than our literature, our music, our poetry. Other nations have these things also.

Maybe the intangible we cannot describe lies in the personal experience and the living of each of us rather than in phrase, however inspiring. The meaning of our word "America" flows from one pure spring. The soul of our America is its freedom of mind and spirit in man. Here alone are the open windows through which pours the sunlight of the human spirit. Here alone is human dignity not a dream, but an accomplishment.

NOTE: The quotation appearing on page 32 of "Sunshine Magazine" was originally written by the Director on May 17, 1948, and furnished to Mr. Mark Foote. This was furnished in connection with a resolution being introduced in Congress for a minute of prayer for peace throughout the Country. It was to be introduced in the Senate by Senator Ferguson. The complete quotation was not used. The remainder of the quotation is "Invoking by prayer the might and mercy of God is our most efficacious means of guaranteeing peace and security for the harassed and helpless peoples of the Earth."

Bufiles reflect nothing derogatory and limited cordial correspondence with Henrichs and the Sunshine Magazine. Last outgoing 9-3-59 regarding a misquote in his publication on the cost of crime.

Search for Security

A FAMILY had failed to make a living on a worn-out New England farm. Did they demand government subsidies, checks for crops they didn't raise, high prices for crops to be burned? They would have scorned such things—scorned and feared, for they knew from days under a foreign despot that where government money goes, government control goes, too.

No, this family put everything they owned in a wagon, and walked beside it two thousand miles, westward. They did not know what was ahead, but they were determined to keep on going until they found a place of freedom where they could keep their self-respect.

They were English, Scotch, Dutch, Italian, French—people from many places—all, now, Americans. They knew that the only happiness is from self-respect, and the only way to self-respect is to earn your own way, not whine for something for nothing.

Their sons and grandsons started grocery stores, became mechanics, saved their money, and started factories. American machines bought by American thrift made the factories grow.

And that's America. Made by people willing to walk two thousand miles beside a wagon, to find opportunity. If such people are gone, if all we have left are soft weaklings who want to be taken care of, then in truth American manliness is dead, that 2,000-mile walk was wasted, and there is nothing left of America but a hollow shell!

Sunshine MAGAZINE

Dear Mr. Hoover:

Thanks so much for your kind personal note received earlier this month. Everywhere I go, either to fill some speaking engagements or just continuing my "look under the hood" at the present day hectic mess, I hear more and more people expressing their deep concern about a lot of things.

Also, many are vividly aware of the outstanding job you are doing and tell me they read avidly every published statement of yours. Your "pinch-hit" column today for Victor Riesel is very much on the target of the entire situation. What you imply about the causes of this present mess deserves to be given greater emphasis, in my humble and obscure personal opinion.

I started teaching country school, one room with 23 kids, 55 years ago at age 15. There was one bully boy in the school and on a Wednesday, after the spring term started the previous Monday, he made his move and I made mine. I wore out a good seven foot hickory pointer on him. Then he ran home to get his no-good white trash papa. The old man barged in with a shotgun and I made my second move; I grabbed a stout hickory bolt about three feet long and conked him cold. That ended the monkey-doodle business in that school.

EX-105 REC-68 62-80186-11

The late and NOT great John Dewey started the entire insane mess with his "progressive education" idiocy, teaching that kids must be allowed to "express themselves" and never be punished. Plain unadulterated horse-feathers, to use a polite word that can go through the mails without getting me hung. It still makes sense to make kids mind and one of these days the synthetic Ph.D. longhairs will be put in their place and real TEACHERS will again be respectable and sought after. If it becomes necessary to "lower the boom" on anyone's spoiled brats, Amen, Brother, Amen.

Judges are at last throwing out of court case after case of assault and battery charges against some teacher who got fed up to the gills with dear Junior and whaled the little hell out of him because he had it coming. There ARE signs of returning sanity about the country. As ever, just plain old "Uncle Doc" Ross

We Lucky Americans!

SUPPOSE the mythical man from Mars came up to you some day and asked you if you were an American. You would say, "Yes," of course. Then suppose he asked you another question, "What is an American?"

Perhaps your answer would be something like this—or maybe you can improve on it:

"Yes, I'm an American. When I hear an airplane, I don't look around for the nearest bombproof shelter. I know that it is flying for the purpose of peacetime progress.

"I'm an American. I know that my newspapers and my radio and television will give me a fair picture of what's happening in the world, to the best of their ability.

"I send my children to a school where the teachers aren't merely vassals of the state—where the facts that are taught help to make them better, more intelligent citizens.

"I'm an American. I can talk freely with my friends, expressing my own opinions on both political and non-political subjects, without the fear that there are spies who listen to my every word and then report it to some high and secret tribunal."

You would probably say these things and many more. And saying them would, in these troubled times, make you realize something else, so that you would come to say just one thing more: "Yes, I'm lucky—I'm an American!"

Captioned individual advised that the August, 1963, issue of "Musical Merchandise Review" quoted the Director as follows:

"The child who receives music training, and who finds joy in singing and making music, will not make mischief. The girl who sings and plays the piano, does not pick your pocket. The boy who sings and draws the violin bow, is not the boy who draws the gun."

Correspondent, who cannot be identified in Bufiles, desires verification of this quotation and a copy of the "speech" from which it was taken.

A copy of the pertinent page from this publication was obtained from the Library of Congress and the quoted is set forth as indicated. The New York Office contacted the publication and was advised that this quotation was furnished them by Mr. Larston D. Farrar, National Press Building, Washington, D. C. Mr. Farrar is on the Special Correspondents' List and we have cooperated in the past in furnishing him source material and the Director has written some articles at his request. This material was reviewed without locating this quotation. On your authorization, Mr. Farrar was contacted telephonically by Special Agent Jack E. Herington. Mr. Farrar stated that he obtained this quotation from "Sunshine" magazine published by Mr. Henry F. Henrichs, House of Sunshine, Litchfield, Illinois. Mr. Farrar used the quotation since he knew his client, "Musical Merchandise Review," was interested in quotations relating to music from prominent individuals. He did not feel the quotation embarrassing to the Director and had confidence in the accuracy of it because he knows Mr. Henrichs personally.

Morrell to DeLoach Memo
Re: John L. Peer

Our research has been unable to locate any such statement. If this were included in a general statement by the Director to a municipal organization or other worthwhile organization indicating the over-all benefit received from the discipline of music training, it could well have been the type of statement the Director would make. Somewhat similar statements have been made regarding the value of religious training, sports, part-time work, etc.

OBSERVATION:

Since we have no idea as to who the original source of this quotation is, it is believed that a check should be made with "Sunshine" magazine in an effort to trace this statement further.

RECOMMENDATIONS:

(1) That attached in-absence reply be sent correspondent.

(2) That attached airtel be forwarded to the Springfield and Detroit Offices. instructing Springfield to determine the source of the quotation and requesting Detroit to discreetly obtain information regarding reputation of correspondent.

that our special courses in this direction are helping many small businesses to overcome what would be a serious obstacle to success—or even survival.

Last year, for the first time, SBA conducted pilot workshops for prospective small businessmen. These one-day seminars covered the major pitfalls that face owners and managers of small businesses, and were conducted in Cleveland, Chicago, Dallas, San Francisco and Los Angeles. By the end of this present fiscal year, SBA will have conducted such workshops in virtually all sections of the country for those who are contemplating going into business.

PERTINENT QUOTE FROM NOTED CRIME FIGHTER

J. Edgar Hoover, Chief G-man and a legend in his own time, recently was quoted to this effect:

"The child who receives music training, and who finds joy in singing and making music, will not make mischief. The girl who sings and plays the piano, does not pick your pocket. The boy who sings and draws the violin bow, is not the boy who draws the gun."

'QUALITY STABILIZATION' STILL MAKING PROGRESS

The "Quality Stabilization" bill, changed in non-vital areas in the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, but reported favorably by that group, is liable to be granted a "rule" by the House Committee on Rules at any time, which automatically would make possible a vote in the full House of Representatives. Passage by the House by overwhelming vote is considered a foregone conclusion, if the Rules Committee allows the bill to come out.

The subcommittee headed by Senator Vance Hartke (D.-Ind.) has made its report to the full Senate Committee on Commerce, and the heat is on that group's chairman, Senator Warren G. Magnuson (D.-Wash.), to allow the measure to be voted upon. It possibly can squeak through that committee, although this is far from a certainty.

The future of Quality Stabilization, at this point, actually rests upon the "grass roots" supporters—the hundreds of thousands of retailers who favor it. If they put enough pressure on Congressmen in this "session of the stretch out," there seems to be little doubt but what the measure can be forced through. If they look the other way, Congressmen are liable to figure the pressure is off and forget about the legislation.

This measure will be more difficult for small businesses to obtain adequate short-term credit from commercial banks. It has been discussed in Congressional hearings that money on priority basis, favoring their Tripartite AAA rated customers (those with assets $1 million or more), and then lending others, if there is any left for the smaller businessman.

It is a clear sign, too, that owner and managers of small businesses should tighten up on their granting of credit and should achieve greater liquidity. Literally hundreds of thousands of small businessmen were put through the wringer during the three recessions of the 1930s by the process FRB used, and there's no reason to think that these smaller businessmen have become any wiser than the past decade.

The action—in spite of FRB's protestation—has been called "inexorable" by Representative Wright Patman, former chairman of the House Committee on Banking and Currency and one of the foremost monetary experts in Congress. Others at Capitol Hill feel the same way, but not enough of them to force a change in policy. Mr. Patman has pointed to the "strange economics" inherent in the movements of the money market in recent years.

"Interest rates have been higher than stock yields for several years," he asserted. "The best grade corporate bond pay approximately 4.2% while the average yield of top-grade stocks is not much above three percent."

"This is a reversal of the usual condition because stocks are considered a risky than bonds. The fact overlooked is that the big corporations are retaining huge sums—for further expansion—which are not reflected in their dividends. This may be why gold attracts investors instead of low dividends."

Dear Sir:

In the magazine "Musical Merchandise Review" for August, 1963, there is an article attributed to you, on the benefits children derive from music training.

Re: Bureau airtel to Springfield, 9/17/63.

On 9/20/63 HENRY F. HENRICHS, Editorial Director, Sunshine Magazine, was contacted at the House of Sunshine, Litchfield, Illinois. A copy of the June, 1963, issue of Sunshine Magazine was made available and is enclosed herewith for the Bureau. On page 32 of this magazine the quotation contained in the enclosure to referenced airtel was found under the heading, "Sundry Interviews". Mr. HENRICHS stated this was a regular feature of the publication and that almost without exception the quotations appearing in this feature were taken from pre-published material. He stated he was unable to recall the origin of the quotation in question.

HENRICHS stated these quotations are generally selected by MONTA H. CRANE, Associate Editor, who is his daughter. He stated she was presently on vacation in the vicinity of Table Rock, Missouri, and was tentatively scheduled to return Thursday, 9/26/63. HENRICHS stated CRANE's records would have no meaning to him and that she would be the only one who might possibly recall the source of this quotation. He stated it would be primarily a process of recalling it from memory, but that perhaps some record kept by CRANE might serve to refresh her memory. HENRICHS pointed out

Re Springfield airtel to Bureau dated 9/20/63.

On 9/26/63 MONTA H. CRANE, Associate Editor, Sunshine Magazine, was contacted at the House of Sunshine, Litchfield, Illinois. She stated her father, HENRY F. She stated she could not recall the source from memory.

She advised she did locate the original copy of "Sundry Interviews" for the June, 1963, issue, where the quotation appeared; and, she was able to determine that particular page was prepared in January, 1963. The source was not reflected.

She stated records are kept to indicate the source of the articles, but that quotations are selected from various publications and used without crediting the source; consequently, no record of these is kept. She stated she had located some quotations and articles on the subject of music, but the one in question was not contained therein. She did state she has a collection of some quotations that have been used, and that she had checked through those.

A Practical Thing To Do . . .

UNTOLD thousands are languishing in hospitals, sanitariums, penal institutions over the land, many of them forlorn and hopeless. They are sorely in need of mental and spiritual help, perhaps even more so than medicinal help. Scores of public institutions all over this country are calling for more and more SUNSHINE Magazine subscriptions. In hospitals, the physically ill and weakened find SUNSHINE Magazine not only a boon to hold and read, but a continuous source of inspiration and uplift. Officials say that such copies are often read by half a hundred inmates.

Wardens of prisons and penitentiaries, where many other magazines are banned, continue to call for more SUNSHINE Magazine subscriptions, because of its high character.

Thousands of copies have been sent free to such institutions by the Publisher, while others have been supplied with annual subscriptions by kindly, considerate folk. In such cases the Publisher shares the cost by supplying subscriptions at half rate.

Hence, four subscriptions will be sent to any public institution for $5.00. Other quantities at the same rate. Contributions for such purposes have ranged from $1.00 to $50.00 each. And such contributions will give pleasure and inspiration to thousands of unfortunates.
